Sheriff's Office Launches New Website

Pueblo, CO: The Pueblo County Sheriff's Office launched a new user-friendly website that offers a contemporary look and provides easier public access to Sheriff's Office information and forms. The new website is courtesy of the Chemical Stockpile Emergency Preparedness Program.

"We are pleased to be able to provide, through the CSEP Program, a new website that will provide a more interactive and useful way to connect with the Sheriff's Office," said Sheriff Kirk M. Taylor. "This is going to make it easier for the public to access information on the Sheriff's Office every day and especially during emergencies."

The new website can be accessed at www.pueblosheriff.org. The website makeover was funded with a $41,814 grant from the CSEP program and was completed by CivicPlus, a website development company.

The website provides improved functionality and accessibility, which was becoming increasingly outdated on the previous site that was implemented nearly 15 years ago. The site provides easier access to information on the detention center, law enforcement, emergency services and the Chemical Stockpile Emergency Preparedness Program.

A new tab on the site entitled "How Do I" will help users access information, download forms and conduct operations, all in one easy location. Quick links available at this location include allowing the public to register for inmate visits, put money on an inmate's account, sign up for emergency notifications, obtain forms for a records request and concealed carry permits and access a variety of general information about the Sheriff's Office.

New to the website are a History Hall, Medal of Valor and In Memoriam pages. The History Hall provides a historical look at the 37 sheriffs who have served Pueblo County since the office was established in 1861. The Medal of Valor page features the citations and photographs of the Sheriff's Office's 17 recipients of law enforcement's highest decoration for bravery. The In Memoriam page honors the Deputies who died in the line duty.

"We want to thank the CSEP program for providing Pueblo County with yet another tool to
